OVERVIEW

Arbour Counseling Services, Jamaica Plain offers a clinical program designed to provide mental health services to students and their families. This program is administered within the school setting during school hours by Arbour Counseling Services' (ACS) therapists working closely with designated school staff. These services are provided to students in elementary, middle and high schools throughout the Boston area.

PROGRAM COMPONENTS

Students may be referred for school-based therapy by their parents, teachers, school personnel or other providers. Services offered include:

- Individual, group and family therapy
- Access to a psychopharmacological evaluation, if needed
- A systemic strength-based approach to a student's therapeutic needs, including family, school and community partnering
- Identification of special needs, including learning disabilities
- Ongoing consultations with parents and school personnel to adjust treatment plans and goals

Program Development

Consultation to teachers is provided by the clinician delivering therapy at the schools. Additional consultation is available for school administrators, school psychologists, and student support coordinators. Areas of consultation include, but are not limited to:

- Integrating special needs children into the mainstream classroom
- Classroom management
- Participation in team meetings
